[From the Daily, Oct. 14.]

Bruce Tyler, station relief agent for the Atlantic & Pacific road, came in from Prescott, Junction, Arizona, last night.

Antonio Jose Chavez, a brother in law of Ignacio Baca, will marry a dark-eyed beauty at Bernalillo next Monday morning.

W. F. Bledsoe has made arrangements to receive telegrams at the St. Elmo during the ball games at El Paso next Saturday and Sunday.

Hert Martin, representing the Rocky Mountain News, Denver, is in the city. He is on his way home from a trip to southern New Mexico.

Lucas Analla and Mrs. Mariana Pacheco were married yesterday by Justice of the Peace Whiting at his office in old town in the court house.

J. P. Chase, F. Buchanan and M. Conney give notice that an examination of public school teachers will take place at Socorro, October 23d and 24d.

Mrs. A. H. Meyers will leave this evening for Topeka to visit her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Burns. The lady will be absent from the city for at least a month.

W. A. Wilson, a Kansas City commercial tourist, will hereafter recognize Albuquerque as his headquarters, and will branch out from here on his regular trips to the cities and towns of the southwest.

Sophie Muslemans and Fanny Wilson, two girls on the row who are "green-eyed" at each other, were up before Justice Madden yesterday afternoon, for using indecent language and cursing each other.

David Beer, traveling for a jewelry house, and George L. Cornwell, a tourist for a wholesale stationery establishment, both from New York, came down from the north last night and have samples spread at the San Felipe.

"On to Durango" is the watchword now. J. W. Hanna, late speaker of the house of representatives of Colorado, is here agitating the importance of building railroads into the great San Juan country. Our people will do all in their power to aid the matter.

J. U. Henry, a capitalist of Santa Monica, Cal., came in from the west last night and is registered at the Armijo. He is a friend of Mine Host Miles and after enjoying the day in this enterprising burg, he will leave to-night for a business visit to the City of Mexico.

Last evening at the house of a friend, Jacob Loeb, of the Southwestern Brewery company, and Miss Annie Stratman, a young lady from the east, were joined in marriage by Justice Madden. Mr. Loeb is a most excellent young business gentleman and has many friends in the city who wish him and wife a happy married life.

It was a great surprise to society this morning to learn that Mr. Edward Beckwith, Jr., and Miss Rosa Castaneda were quietly married last evening at the home of the groom's parents. Rev. Charles Pleukhart performed the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. Success to Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith.

A. W. Cleland, Jr., has sold two fine residence lots on the Highlands, corner Gold avenue and Walter street, to W. H. Cook, of California; consideration unknown. This citizen stated a few days ago that Mr. Cook was here to purchase Albuquerque real estate, and it is now understood that he will soon build a handsome residence on his purchase, after which he will remove from California with his family to the commercial city of the southwest—Albuquerque.

J. K. Hurd, who has been the principal writer, editorially and locally, on Col. Albright's Second street paper, has resigned his position, and with his wife expects to leave for California in a few days. Mr. Hurd has proved himself a good newspaper writer, and he will no doubt get on some of the metropolitan dailies of the Pacific coast. He could return to St. Louis, where a position awaits him coming on the Missouri Republic, but he prefers to remain in the western country.

E. J. Huling, of the firm of George O'Brien & Co., states that wool is coming in slowly, shearing having been delayed by the late heavy rains, and much of the wool that has come into the local market is in poor condition. Prices, considering the quality of the wool, are very good. "Owing to the shortness of the grass," continued Mr. Huling, "caused by the long dry summer, many sheep men are not shearing this fall, but will shear a full year's clip in the spring. This will, of course, make the fall output much smaller than usual, but increase the spring clip. The recent rains have guaranteed a winter's water supply, and the sheep men feel that with care their sheep can work through the coming winter without much loss."

Wool Market.
At about 12 o'clock Friday night some vandals saturated the wool between the store buildings of Strumling and Sugar, in San Pedro, with kerosene and set fire to them. By a lucky accident Mr. Golden, who had charge of the Sugar store, got up at this time and succeeded in smothering out the flames. The saturation of wool oil in the wool could be plainly noticed the next morning. Had the fire gained any headway most of the town's flourishing woolen camp, would have been destroyed. The excitement runs high among the people of San Pedro, several clues are being followed, and the culprit, if caught, will be promptly dealt with. There was not a dollar of insurance on any of the buildings or stocks of goods threatened.

Coroner's Jury.
Late yesterday afternoon, the coroner's jury, sitting on the dead body of Daniel P. Wootton, assassinated at San Lorenzo springs, Saturday night, returned the following verdict:

Way, the undersigned, justice of the peace and juror, on the request on the body of Daniel P. Wootton, that deceased came to death at San Lorenzo springs by a gun shot wound in the hands of a person or persons to the jury unknown.

Signed: David Denham, justice of the peace, J. C. Marshall, C. B. Somers, Frank Alley, Frank Meredith, A. C. Carver and A. J. Davis, jurors.

The evidence brought out before the jury was circumstantial against certain parties, who were seen to go to the mountains and return to the city on the Saturday that Wootton's soul was sent to its Maker. They had fire arms. Sheriff Perez has been put in possession of the testimony and it is hoped, for the preservation of his good record as a sheriff of determination and courage, that he will fully investigate the horrible murder.

To-night at 8 o'clock, the Grand Army veterans of G. R. Warren post, No. 5, will hold a meeting at Justice Denham's office for the purpose of taking some action upon the murder of their comrade, Daniel P. Wootton.

The murdered man, according to papers found in his trunk and on his person, was above the ordinary intelligence, and has corresponded for a number of newspapers throughout the United States. He belonged to Co. C, 1st regiment of the Second cavalry of the Indiana volunteers, was enrolled on the 25th of August, 1861, serving three years through the hottest time of the rebellion. He was discharged on December 31, 1863 at Mussey Creek, Tenn., by reason of re-enlisting as a veteran volunteer, the discharge being signed by Joseph W. Starr, captain of his company. After re-enlisting he was made second lieutenant on Sept. 12, 1864, and was honorably discharged from the army July 28, 1865, at Nashville, Tenn. While in Denver he made application for a pension on the ground of a double hernia contracted during the war.

His wife, Lydia J. Wootton, is a Christian science healer, residing at Denver. She has been notified. The son will arrive this evening from Denver.

Four of his five brothers are ministers of the Gospel, as follows: Rev. A. J. Wootton, of Winchester, Ind.; Rev. Isora P. Wootton, of Lagrange, Iowa; Rev. W. S. Wootton, of Des Moines, Iowa; Rev. Andrew Wootton, of Glen Elder, Kansas. Another brother, Henry V. Wootton, resides at Kokomo, Ind., and a sister, Mrs. Levisia R. Weaver, lives at Florence, Ala.

He had prepared to send them photographs of himself, which he had had taken at W. F. Trostle's photograph gallery on Gold avenue, and in each envelope, addressed to them were these words:

Dear Bro. and all:
I enclose photo. Can't you folks do the same in return? I am well and always expect to be. Ever yours,
DAN.

Undertaker Strong to-day notified all his relatives of his murder.

Brown & Barnett.
Monday evening, at 8 o'clock, in the Highland Methodist church, Mr. George H. Brown, one of the head clerics for Bullock, Baker & Co., and Miss Lillian Olive Barnett were united in the holy bonds of wedlock by the pastor, Rev. D. P. Brown. As the couple marched down the aisle of the church to the altar, Miss Stella Boatright rendered superbly Mendelssohn's wedding march on the organ. Following the marriage ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Brown held a pleasant reception, which was attended by a number of intimate friends, at their residence on Walters street. The bride is a sister of Mrs. B. A. Sleyter. The following is a partial list of the presents received: Steel engraving, in beautiful frame, from Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Champion and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bullock; Smyrna rug from S. R. Callender; cut glass berry bowl from Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Reed; solid silver butter dish from Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Nettleton; solid silver butter knife from W. Moore and Edward Clayton; souvenir spoon from Harry and Bessie Haidridge; handsome damask towels from Miss Stella Boatright; handsome vase from Mrs. G. W. Champion; silver butter knife from Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bailey; solid silver sugar tongs from Mr. and Mrs. Haidridge; carving set from Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Sleyter; beautiful water set in silver stand from Rudolph Helwig and Frank Stuart; handsome embroidered handkerchief from Miss Virginia Dox; solid silver bon bon dish from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutton.

Kobbe's Birthday.
Little Kobbe Hopkins, the pretty four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hopkins, had a birthday party yesterday, and his papa and mamma gave up the whole house to him and the following little friends: Harry, Ethel and "Baby" Fluke, Jimmy and Ellen McClure, Lorion Jr., and Herbert Miller, Herbert, Dona and Nettie Rankin, Wallace and Lillian Henseliden, Ada Campbell, Gladys and Roy Hall, Charlie and Elsie Meyers. Little Robbie was the recipient of many pretty presents and toys.

When the hair shows signs of falling begin at once to use Ayer's Hair Vigor. This preparation strengthens the scalp, promotes the growth of new hair, restores the natural color to gray and faded hair, and renders it soft, pliant, and glossy.

DISTRICT COURT.

The Swann Jury Fail to Agree. Hamilton Indicted for Murder.
The jury in the case of the United States vs. A. M. Swann, charged with the embezzlement of money order funds while postmaster of Gallup, came into court this morning and reported that they failed to agree. The jury was therefore discharged.

The jury in the Swann case is reported to have stood six for conviction and six for acquittal.

In the cases of Juan Bustos and Felipe Sanchez de Montoya, charged with adultery, the defendants were arraigned and pleaded not guilty.

The case of the United States vs. Bernard Ruppe, a clergyman, is now on trial. The territorial case acted upon were as follows:

Territory vs. Frank Van Leuven, peace bond, discharged at cost of defendant.

Pearl Gilbert vs. Ellis W. Gilbert, divorce, notice of publication filed, divorce pronounced entered, and cause referred to Mr. Finckel to take testimony.

John Miller vs. Estanislao Chavez, assumpsit; defendant called and default entered.

The case of Thomas B. Catron vs. Pascual Craig, recently sent to this court on a change of venue from Santa Fe county, is on stipulation changed again to Santa Fe county.

Mandel Bros. & Co. vs. Joseph W. Joseph, petition for recovery, defendant filed motion to set aside decree pronounced heretofore entered as to judgment and tenders answer.

The territorial grand jury, investigating the charge of assault with deadly weapon upon F. L. Eames by M. Tierney, reported no true bill.

The territorial grand jury returned a true bill against Samuel M. Carter for assault with a deadly weapon upon Frank J. Hubbard at Papito last July.

Two indictments returned by the territorial grand jury against Joseph Hamilton for murder and for horse stealing. Hamilton is a Gallup prisoner and stole a horse from George W. Hight, the sheep rancher. He killed a cow named John McColgan, at one of the Gallup mines with a barrel stove a few months ago, striking the victim across the head, the wounds resulting in death a few hours afterward.

[From the Daily, Oct. 15.]

The Masonic grand lodge will convene in this city next month.

Dr. Keeler, a dentist from Santa Fe, will locate in Albuquerque.

The San Lazarus mine at San Pedro will be shut down for a few weeks.

No empty whisky barrels are shipped from Albuquerque. They are bought by the wine makers.

Judge Denham offers a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the assassin of D. P. Wootton.

George Berthold, one of the city's old time butchers, has connected himself with the meat market of William Farr.

In the Denver railroad meeting very little was said about the wild idea of building a goose neck railroad from Las Vegas to El Paso.

The ladies of Corrallos have organized a temperance society, with Mrs. Jackson, president; Amy Anderson, secretary, and Mrs. Ames, treasurer.

Two furnished rooms for rent. Suitable for lodging or light housekeeping. Enquire of Mrs. Rutherford, corner Broadway and Iron avenue.

Justice of the Peace Whiting, of old town, was called from his sleep at 11 p. m. Tuesday night by Jose Ortiz, who wished to marry a fair damsel, named Delorinda Ruiz. They were married.

Rev. J. A. Menaul returned from Flagstaff last evening, accompanied by Rev. I. T. Whittmore, of Florence, Arizona. While at Flagstaff he installed Rev. Robt. Colman as pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Chas. Manning died at the Atlantic & Pacific hospital this morning from hemorrhage of the bowels. His remains are being embalmed by Undertaker Montfort, and will be shipped to Kansas City. He was aged 22 years and was a car repairer.

Lieut. F. W. Sibley and wife are at the San Felipe from Fort Wingate. L. M. Hurt, Colonel Augur and Guy Carleton, all officers of the United States army at Fort Wingate, are here. They are witnesses in a larceny case, which will soon be tried in the district court.

Mrs. J. L. D. Morrison, mother of Mrs. Clark M. Carr, of Wingate, with her aged mother, Mrs. A. McGair, arrived last night from St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Carr are expected in from the west this evening, when the visitors will go out to Mr. Carr's ranch to remain a few days.

The board of county commissioners yesterday selected the site for the bridge across the Rio Grande south of this city. Providing right of way is given the bridge will be located just south of the Silveira house in Barea. Commissioner Ribera is to-day at Pajarito securing the right of way of land owners on the opposite side of the river.

A. C. Wootton, son of Daniel P. Wootton, assassinated last Saturday night at San Lorenzo springs, in the Sandia mountains, arrived last night from Denver, and before he saw the body of his dead father he recognized his silver watch, which was shown him by Justice of the Peace Denham. The body will be buried in Fairview cemetery to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock under the auspices of G. K. Warren post No. 5, funeral occurring from Strong's undertaking establishment. Let a good crowd attend the last sad rites of a man who was assassinated in cold blood.

Marshal Maston, who has been away over the Atlantic & Pacific, as far west as Los Angeles, after the fleeing watch robber, returned last night. He traced the culprit from Coolidge, where he sold Ernest Meyer's gold watch and chain to Chas. Paxton, to Gallup, and from there he heard of him at several places. He is a slick thief, carries a pistol and is dangerous, and thus avoided capture, although Marshal Maston was assisted in the search by Special Detective Keene, of the Atlantic & Pacific road. At Los Angeles the whole police force of that city was on the lookout for the thief.

Uncle Henry Carpenter, of Tijeras canon, is in the city. He has left at the Citizens office papers showing that there is such a grant as the Canon de Carnuel, which was several years ago recommended for confirmation by Surveyor General Julian. It was on the above grant, at the San Lorenzo springs, where Daniel P. Wootton was assassinated.

Last night, about 12 o'clock, while two girls from Copper avenue were returning from a point in old town in a hack, some person fired off a pistol near the residence of W. B. Childers, and one of the girls screamed "Murder," at the same time leaping from the hack. She fell violently to the ground, and was picked up by the driver and taken to her room, when the madame of the house, assisted by the girl's lover, watched at her bedside. It was thought at first that she was badly injured, but this morning she is reported all right, except a dislocated limb, and a few bruises about her body.

THE NORTHWEST ROAD.
Enthusiastic Meeting Held at Opera House Last Evening.
Pursuant to call a mass meeting of citizens was held at Grant's opera house last evening to hear Mr. Hanna regarding the new proposed line of railroad to northwestern Colorado. M. P. Stamm was chairman and N. C. Collier secretary.

Mr. Hanna explained fully the object and expectations of his company, and asked the co-operation of the people of this city in the enterprise, to secure a survey of the proposed road from this city to Farmington, to which point he has a fine surveyed map of Cortez, Col. His remarks were instructive and were listened to with close attention.

At the close of Mr. Hanna's remarks, a committee of fifteen were named to solicit the necessary funds to make the survey. The following gentlemen were named to act in conjunction with seven from the Commercial club: M. P. Stamm, chairman, N. B. Field, N. C. Collier, Larson Miller, Ed. R. Quakel, L. S. Frazier, J. A. Weinmann, J. T. Barrabough.

This morning the Commercial club committee of seven citizens, G. L. Brooks, chairman, and the citizens' committee of eight, M. P. Stamm, chairman, met and organized by the wise selection of Hon. H. B. Ferguson as chairman of the joint committee, and Jesse M. Wheelock secretary. After the meeting the joint committee in a body started out to solicit subscriptions, and are meeting with great success. There is a notable liberality displayed in the subscriptions of the three banks and our merchants.

They know that the road will open up a grand country, which will be to Albuquerque and the Rio Grande valley what the Atlantic & Pacific has been and is now. All the money required for the preliminary survey is expected to be subscribed by this evening.

[From the Daily, Oct. 16.]
Chas. Harding, a merchant of Gallup, is in the city on court business.

"Chief Justice" Maloney, of Gallup, has a poor opinion of federal officials.

Dr. T. P. Robinson is building a two-story stone business house at Gallup, 2500 feet in dimensions.

David Lesser has built a neat residence at Gallup, and his family arrived from Santa Monica a few days ago.

Dr. T. A. Edwards and wife, of Denver, are at the San Felipe. The doctor is a specialist in certain diseases, and thinks seriously of locating here.

W. M. McClary and child, accompanied by the mother of the gentleman, are here from St. Louis. Mr. McClary is the son in law of Judge H. L. Warren.

J. W. Barnett, of St. Joseph, Mo., is here looking up a business location. Mr. Barnett is a friend of Doc Bledsoe, who is showing the gentlemen courtesies to-day.

Louis Bishop was up before Justice Denham this afternoon for threatening the life of Henry Clark. Both are colored. Bishop was sent over to the county jail.

Mrs. Annie Norton, principal of the Methodist industrial school in this city, will attend the mission conference in Las Vegas next week, reading a paper on a subject assigned her.

Andrew Smith, superintendent of transportation of the Atlantic & Pacific, and wife, accompanied by their friends, C. S. Sutton and wife, of Topeka, Kansas, arrived home last evening.

The San Lazarus mining company at San Pedro has placed Mr. Newberry, formerly bookkeeper for the concern, in the position of manager, the place held by S. P. Conger, the locator of the property.

Miss A. A. Dalzell, of New York, a young lady who suffers greatly with her throat, has come to the Rio Grande valley in hope of getting relief. She was advised by a physician, who formerly made a visit to this city, to seek the climate of Albuquerque.

Two lots on the west side of First street, between Railroad and Copper avenues, have been purchased by Edward Quakel for $4,500 from Charles Kennedy, of this city, and Fred Wallace, of Denver. The lots are now occupied by Andy Horne's livery stable.

V. P. Edie, the wool rustler for George Oberne & Co., who makes the best of them hustle when he takes the road, came in from the Navajo country last night. Volney reports the fall wool clip of the Indians much lighter than for several seasons, and states that most all the wool out there of this season has been marketed.

Manager Gabel and Chief Clerk Walker, of the Atlantic & Pacific, are the right gentlemen in the right places. They are energetic, young and can rush through a lot of business with accuracy and dispatch. The board of directors made no mistake when it agreed to place Mr. Gabel at the head of the Atlantic & Pacific.

"On to Durango!" "On to Farmington!" is a cry going up from many wide-awake citizens of Albuquerque, who are alive to the advantages to be derived from having railroad connections with northwest New Mexico and southern Colorado. The committees on soliciting funds are meeting with success, only one gentleman, who owns considerable real estate, refusing to liberally donate.

County Commissioner Ribera returned from Pajarito this afternoon. He secured the right of way from the owners of land in that precinct for the bridge across the Rio Grande from the river to the public road. Solon E. Rose deserves credit for donating 80 feet through his land for the road. Messrs. Simpson and Nick Sanchez donate the right of way on this side the river. The bridge will be built this winter.

Yesterday afternoon a common blackbird flew up to the window of the room occupied by Major Maynard and wife at the San Felipe, and picking on the glass desired to get in the room. The window was hoisted and the little

A Runaway.
This morning the team of P. A. Simpson ran off. He was passing down First street, toward Railroad avenue, when a country team ran into him and his horses took fright. They turned the corner at Railroad avenue and rapidly ran up the avenue toward the mountains. Mr. Simpson kept the horses in the middle of the road until the buggy struck a low place where water-mains had been laid across the street. Here he was thrown out and dragged a few feet, sustaining several bad bruises and cuts on the right side. The runaway horses were captured by John Trimble on horseback. The pole of the buggy was broken.

Methodist Bishop.
Bishop W. F. Mallallen, of the Methodist Episcopal church, is at the San Felipe. The bishop came in from Flagstaff, where he presided over the deliberations of the Arizona conference, having previously held three conferences of his church in California. Tuesday and Wednesday of this week he was in the Navajo country planning for and inspecting work of his church. Wednesday of next week he will hold the English speaking conference of his church for New Mexico at Las Vegas. He is here to preside over the Spanish conference of the church, which is expected to commence at Peralta, Valencia county, this morning. He is accompanied in his trip by his son, W. E. Mallallen, of Boston.

Tuesday and Wednesday of this week he was in the Navajo country planning for and inspecting work of his church. Wednesday of next week he will hold the English speaking conference of his church for New Mexico at Las Vegas. He is here to preside over the Spanish conference of the church, which is expected to commence at Peralta, Valencia county, this morning. He is accompanied in his trip by his son, W. E. Mallallen, of Boston.

A Runaway.
This morning the team of P. A. Simpson ran off. He was passing down First street, toward Railroad avenue, when a country team ran into him and his horses took fright. They turned the corner at Railroad avenue and rapidly ran up the avenue toward the mountains. Mr. Simpson kept the horses in the middle of the road until the buggy struck a low place where water-mains had been laid across the street. Here he was thrown out and dragged a few feet, sustaining several bad bruises and cuts on the right side. The runaway horses were captured by John Trimble on horseback. The pole of the buggy was broken.

Wootton in Pueblo.

The chiefman speaks kindly of the man assassinated.
The Pueblo Chiefman has the following account of Daniel P. Wootton, who was assassinated at San Lorenzo springs last Saturday night—not in the evening as was first thought, but some time in the afternoon, as is now known positively, for the shot was heard by parties at Camp Whitcomb.

Dan Wootton was one of the old-timers of Pueblo, though a man don't have to be gray of hair for that. He was about 48 years old, stout in build, and of gentle voice and courteous bearing. He was a man of
